Ex-Champ Makes Ex-Champ of Champ

A champion's short reign ends as Fullmer spins to the canvas in the fifth round. By his own admission, Gene never knew what hit him.—(AP Photofax.)

Referee Frank Sikora records "You're Out!" over Fullmer, who has reached one knee. Defeated champion pitched over and needed help to stand up for some time.

Here It Comes

But He Got the Message

He Didn't Know What Hit Him!

CHICAGO (AP)—Bewildered Gene Fullmer, his middleweight crown lifted, stood in his dressing room last night and asked:

"What happened?"

"He got you with one, Gene," said Fullmer's kid brother, Don. "He hit you twice and then came up with that left hook. That did it."

Fullmer shook his head and muttered: "First time. That's the first time I ever got knocked out and I don't know how it happened."

Fullmer, a 25-year-old copper miner from West Jordan, Utah, called Sugar Ray Robinson "the greatest fighter I ever met."

"He has the best record and he's the only one that ever knocked me out.

"I wasn't overconfident," said Gene, "it was just carelessness."

Fullmer's manager, Marv Jenson, apparently had the answer for Fullmer's defeat.

"I think Gene wanted to make a spectacular fight because he was champion, and it cost him his championship," said Jenson.

"We warned him in the corner to fight like he had fought before; keep his hands up and crowd. But he didn't do it."

Fullmer said he didn't think Robinson fought differently.

"I just dropped my hands and that was it. I never keep count but I thought I was ahead and my plan was to wear him down.

"I wanted a knockout," said Fullmer. "Any time I can knock out a guy like that, I'll take it."

Fullmer said that Robinson never hurt him during the fight. "He never hurt me at all," said the unmarked Fullmer, "because I didn't even know I got hit."

Fullmer said he'd like to have a return bout but Jenson pointed out there was no return clause in the contract.

"The future is all up to Jim Norris," said Jenson. "We're leaving for New York where Gene makes a television appearance Sunday and after that our plans are indefinite."

There certainly wasn't any question about how Sugar Ray did his five-round job against the mauling Fullmer.

"I was just manoeuvring him, trying to draw him in with a right," he said. "The right was something like a decoy. I wanted a clean counter shot with my left. I finally got it. I don't know how far it travelled but I'm sure Mr. Fullmer got the message. I just thank God that I got in the punch. I had no other strategy."

Robinson sat with a sort of up-in-the-clouds expression on his face. He gave everybody credit for his victory but himself.

"I owe much to millions of persons who had faith in me and prayed for me," he said, "and I owe so much to Joe Louis, who has been with me all the time to give moral help and his knowledge of boxing.

"And I owe so much to Father Lang (Rev. Jovian Lang of the St. Joseph Seminary in Westmont, Ill.) for his spiritual help.

"And I owe so much to my wife, Edna Mae, who suffered untold miseries as I prepared for this fight."

Take-Off Failure Kills 32

Troops, Civilians Die In Crash Near London

Woman, Children Perish in Flames

BLACKBUSHE, England (UP) — A twin-engined British transport plane carrying troops and civilians to the Middle East crashed in flames last night after it developed engine trouble shortly after takeoff. Thirty-two persons, including two children, were killed.

The air ministry said there were 35 persons aboard the plane. The dead included 22 soldiers a serviceman's wife and two children two persons including one woman employed by the war department and the entire five-man crew.

Four soldiers were pulled out alive their clothing ablaze but one died later of severe burns.

The Viking transport cracked up five minutes after taking off for Tripoli Libya from Blackbushe airfield in a suburb of London. One engine failed as the craft tried to gain altitude from the runway.

The pilot radioed for permission to return and headed back toward the runway on one engine. Two miles short, the craft plunged into a wood.

Some witnesses said the plane exploded in the air. Others reported it caught fire after it crashed.

The airport control tower had sounded a full alert. Crash crews, fire engines and ambulances were headed for the air strip when the crash occurred.

'Rout Aggressor' Cries Zhukov

MOSCOW (UP)—Defence Minister Georgi K. Zhukov, speaking alongside a banner proclaiming the glories of "Peace, Democracy and Socialism, vowed yesterday that Russia would build up its military might to "rout any aggressor."

Zhukov did not mention any potential aggressor by name. He did however assail the United States for policies which he said created "the danger of atomic war."

Minutes later, Moscow shook to the howl of hundreds of jet engines, the rumble of potentially-atomic artillery and other engines of war and the tread of some 2,000,000 marching feet.

The traditional May Day parade of Soviet military might was the most impressive in years. It included 178 planes of various types, mostly jet fighters and bombers; 8.7-inch field guns capable of firing atomic shells, and tractor-drawn rocket-launchers.

Only new item on display was a lightly-armored artillery tractor.

Tax Killings

Killings on the stock market should be taxed and proceeds used to increase pensions and social services, Harold Winch said last night before being renominated CCF candidate for Vancouver East. He cited 1,000-per-cent tax-free increase in value of Trans-Mountain pipeline shares.

To Avoid Overtime Pay

Curtain Cuts Stars

NEW YORK (AP)—What happens at the Metropolitan Opera House when it's final curtain time and three renowned guest artists haven't completed their performances?

—If a decision is left up to Sergei Denham, director of the Ballet Russe, he orders the curtain rung down.

That's what he did Tuesday night on an incompleted performance of the ballet Gaite Parisienne. And did he have a furious and very much insulted ballerina Alexandra Danilova on his hands!

"Amateurish," snapped the celebrated Russian-American dancer Wednesday, "unprofessional . . . ridiculous programming."

This was not the first time Denham has ordered an abrupt ending of an incompleted performance of the Ballet Russe. He did the same thing April 8 in Montreal while the concluding ballet of the opening night program had several minutes to run. Again, the problem was overtime pay.

To Denham, it was simply a matter of economics. He said Tuesday's performance was "running into overtime." It was about to incur "frightening expenses" in overtime pay, and thus it simply had to end promptly at 11.30 p.m., finished or not.

Alberni Swindle Disclosed

Trickster Fools 60 Workers

ALBERNI (BUP)—A warrant was issued yesterday in Alberni for the arrest of a man accused of talking some 60 construction workers into leaving their jobs, then buying a car with a worthless cheque.

Police said the warrant was issued against a man, aged about 45, identified as David Richmond, who would be charged with false pretences.

The action follows arrival in Alberni last week of a man who rented an office in the Canadian Legion building as headquarters for a "project on Great Central Lake."

He apparently hired a superintendent and 60 other highly-skilled construction workers from other companies, employed a truck to haul freight, purchased the auto and arranged for several local contractors to gather supplies for him.

Then Monday the truck driver reported no freight at the train station, as had been ordered, and the car dealer said the man had asked him to wait another day before cashing the cheque.

Police disclosed the man had no bank account and was not connected with General Construction Ltd. of Vancouver, as he had claimed.

Jordan's Ex-Leaders Linked with Red Plot

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UP) — A Lebanese newspaper reported yesterday that Soviet diplomats in Syria had conspired with Jordanian leftist leaders in a plot to topple King Hussein from his throne.

The newspaper El Hayat said ousted Jordanian premier Sulelman Nabulsi and Hussein's former chief of staff, Maj.-Gen. Ali Abu Nuwar, were in direct contact with the Soviet Damascus embassy which promised Soviet arms if they could persuade the government to accept diplomatic relations with Russia.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

SOME well-meaning people want to abolish Government House and cover the site with old-age pensioners' cabins.

The proposal is not to be taken seriously, but for every person who voices a wild idea, there are 100 persons who harbor the same idea in secret, and maybe 10,000 others who believe something like it.

Such ideas are part of the old levelling tradition, which holds that privilege must be wiped out.

The most recent inheritors of it, the Russians, announced the approach of the classless society, but created the most powerful group of governing aristocrats that the world has ever seen.

The institution of the lieutenant-governor is the symbol and the representative of the Crown, a time-honored focus of loyalty, a reminder of our historic past, and a vital part of our system of government.

Do away with the lieutenant-governor, and you would have to devise a workable substitute for him. When parliamentary governments lose their majorities, waver and fall, someone must be on hand to continue in office, above the dust and anger of factional disputes, to maintain the authority of the state and summon new parliamentary leaders.

"Let the Governor-General handle that in Ottawa," says someone. That won't do, because we live under a federal system, which allows each province a degree of self-rule.

The lieutenant-governor, being the direct representative of the Crown for the province, symbolizes that portion of independence that we have.

"Cut out all the costly pomp and ceremony, and make the lieutenant-governor just an official," says another critic. Other provinces have done that, but surely it robs the office of some of its dignity and magic. There is too much grey sameness in the world. Can't we enjoy some flashes of glory here and there?

Many old people are badly off, and need cheap housing. They also need food. However, nobody has yet suggested that the lawn of the legislative buildings be torn up and planted in potatoes.

Suppose a new Government House costs $1,000,000 to build. If cabins for pensioners are $2,000 each—a conservative estimate—the money will build only 500 cabins. That won't do much for the pensioners of the province, who number many thousands.

And what kind of excuse are we going to make to all the thousands of others who are left without cabins, when the Government House fund runs out?

Parliament Degraded

Pipeline Issue 'Fundamental'

Overflow Crowd Hears Diefenbaker

TRURO, N.S. (BUP) — Conservative leader John Diefenbaker told an overflow audience last night that the pipeline issue in this election campaign was not "hot air," but fundamental to the protection of Parliament as an institution.

"Restore the two-party system, or parliament will be but a memory," he told the crowd of about 800.

He quoted Prime Minister St. Laurent as saying the Conservatives were talking up the pipeline issue but that it was "a lot of hot air."

"My friends," said Mr. Diefenbaker, "it's the future of your sons and daughters, for if those people come back, it is possible that your parliament and my parliament shall be permitted to remain in a degraded position."

Mr. Diefenbaker said the restoration of customary observances of the voice of the people's representatives in the House of Commons was the first issue of the campaign "for people who put honor above material gain."

"I ask if the time has not come to speak as Canadians with all the authority of free men, rather than to say, 'I've always been a Liberal, how can I change?'"

"They (the Liberals) tell you they have brought peace to the world. Did they do it? Did they do it by saying to Britain and the British people when Britain had her back to the wall last fall—I ask you this, do you agree with the prime minister when he referred to those 'supermen' whose days are about numbered?

"We do not believe that. We believe the Commonwealth still has a responsibility for freedom in the world."

He also urged that trade in the Commonwealth be boosted to give it greater strength, and that members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization make fresh pledges to avoid economic policies—such as U.S. "fire sale" and "give-away" programs—that might harm each other.

"The international situation is in doubtful balance," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

No Easy Answer---St. Laurent

Solution 'Some Day' To Wheat Surplus

CALGARY (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Wednesday night there is "no easy answer" to the problem of disposing of Canada's hugg wheat surplus but he was convinced that some day a solution will be found.

The situation, he added, at a political rally here, has been complicated by the United States wheat "giveaway" program, but Canada could not match such a program and it wanted no price war with its American friends.

He touched on the wheat situation as he continued his appeal to Social Credit Alberta to turn Liberal, arguing that only the Liberal Party had substantial support in every province.

"You know, even our opponents admit—privately, of course—that we Liberals are going to be elected on June 10. And I can think of two prominent members of one prominent party who have recently blurted this out publicly." The statements were included in the text of his speech issued to the press before delivery.

Mr. St. Laurent, in his text, did not name these members but he argued that as it seemed likely that the Liberals would be returned, it would be "regrettable" to see Alberta's members shoved off in a distant corner of the Commons with a third or fourth party when they could be up front with the Liberals developing national policy.

At dissolution of Parliament, the Liberals held 168 of 265 seats. The Progressive Conservatives had 50; CCF 22; Social Credit 15; independents three. Seven seats were vacant. Of Social Credit's 15 seats, 11 were in Alberta.

Mr. St. Laurent flew in from Edmonton Wednesday where he opened his attack on the Social Crediters. Canada, he told the rally here, could never have become a great, united nation if it had been controlled by a purely regional party with "incomprehensible theories" which most Canadians wouldn't swallow.

"That fortunately has never happened. And I don't think it ever will happen."

There were only two national parties in Canada and of these, "only the Liberal party has substantial support in Parliament from every province."

On to Borneo If Necessary

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada has its own "bureaucratic nonsense," according to two would-be immigrants who left England to get away from red tape.

Tim Atkinson, 28, and John Onslow, 26, both of London, left Vancouver Tuesday after a brief stay rather than pay $175 customs duty on their 1931 Rolls Royce.

"When we left England, we were told we could bring all our personal possessions duty free," Atkinson said.

They headed for Hollywood, where they are to do a movie scene with their big car.

"It's on to Borneo, if necessary," Onslow said.

Talking Politics

Diefenbaker Can Do It If, If and If

By PETER BRUTON

Progressive Conservatives in Canada have stolen at least one election campaign tactic from Premier Bennett and his Social Crediters in their uphill fight to form this nation's next federal government.

It's a simple tactic actually, but one which has paid great dividends to Social Credit in B.C. and one which the Conservatives hope to use as a springboard to jump into the treasury benches in Ottawa after the June 10 federal election.

The tactic? Follow the lead of our U.S. neighbors to the south and inject a little color into the otherwise drab world of political campaigning.

Now the Conservatives are attempting to put all their eggs into the one basket—newly-appointed leader John Diefenbaker. Campaign advertisements proudly proclaim: "It's time for a Diefenbaker government," or "Support John Diefenbaker's team." Cars owned by Conservatives across Canada are being painted with white footprints urging people to "Follow John."

(Despite these moves not all Conservative candidates seem to know as much about John Diefenbaker as they should. On television the other night one candidate twice praised his leader, "George Diefenbaker.")

Ontario Holds Key

With the other two opposition parties, the CCF and the Socreds, in the present campaign with no purpose other than to "displace" the Conservatives as the official opposition or to become "the balance of power," the big question being asked by the Canadian voters is: "Can the Conservatives win ?"

The Conservatives say they can, and here's how.

There are 265 seats in the House of Commons of which Ontario and Quebec hold more than half with their 160. Tradition has always had it that Ontario voted solid Conservative to balance Quebec's near-total Liberalism.

For the past two elections, however, the Conservatives haven't had that vital sweep in Ontario with the result that in the last Commons the Liberals had 18 seats in Ontario and 69 in Quebec.

With Ontario's Conservative Premier Leslie Frost out in full support of Mr. Diefenbaker and after making big gains in the last Ontario provincial election some Conservative experts expect their candidates to win at least 79 seats in that province next month.

The same experts say Quebec will stay Liberal with the Tories picking up two more seats than they won in 1953 which means six, with the Liberals having 69. This would give the Conservatives 85 seats from both provinces.

Hopes Rise in East

Recent elections in other eastern provinces have shown a trend towards the Conservatives and it is felt they may win 10 of the 12 seats in Nova Scotia, nine in New Brunswick and three out of the four in Prince Edward Island. The Tory dopesters also say they could win three of the seven seats in Newfoundland which went solid Liberal in 1953.

Therefore counting all eastern provinces this would give the Conservatives 110 seats as against 83 for the Liberals. No expert anywhere expects either Social Credit of CCF candidates to win a seat in the east.

shown some dissatisfaciton shown some disatisfaction with the provincial Liberal rule, the Conservatives feel they can win a minimum of seven seats as against the 1953 total of three.

Three more seats, from the Liberals, could be gained in Saskatchewan while the Conservatives expect big gains, maybe even nine seats, in Alberta.

Therefore, without counting B.C., the Conservatives could win 128 seats and the Liberals 97. There are three strong Conservative seats in B.C., upping the total to 131.

These are all Conservative estimations, which, quite understandably might be a little too optimistic. But all the same, it shows the Tories could win.

Tories Keep in Step

Footprints like these will appear on many Victoria cars (with the car-owners' consent) in coming weeks, if Progressive Conservative campaign-organizers' hopes are realized. "John," of course, is PC national leader John Diefenbaker. Attention-getting stencil has been applied to a large number of cars in Vancouver, but this one was the first in Victoria.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

'No Use Fighting It'

Community Flees As Flood Rises

DALLAS (AP)—Residents of the lower Sabine River town of Deweyville planned Wednesday to abandon their community as the swollen river reached record heights upstream.

"There's no use fighting this thing again," said Sheriff Curtis Humphreys. The town was inundated in 1953.

The misery of the 1,000 Deweyville residents was added to that of 9,000 other Texas victims the Red Cross estimates have fled their homes during 14 days of heavy rains and floods.

Rivers east of the Sabine, which forms the Texas-Louisiana border, levelled off Wednesday and the flood threat to cities and towns eased.

Croplands still were flooded, and scores of highways and feeder roads were closed.

Some families still were unable to return to their homes, particularly on the upper Brazos.

State disaster headquarters estimated 35,000 square miles were affected by the floods.

The weather bureau forecast new heavy rains on the watershed.

Upriver, the Sabine was closing roads and lapping at lowland residential sections of Gladewater.

Scores of oil well pumps were shut down as water rose.

The Trinity River was still flooding farm acreage near Trinity, Livingston, Riverside and Liberty near its mouth. Liberty was practically encircled by high water.

GREAT PRESSURE

The pressure at 20,000 feet in the ocean is equal to about 4½ tons per square inch.

Canada Council Sets Date

Aid for Arts in Fall

OTTAWA (CP) — Hon. Brooke Claxton, chairman of the Canada Council, said Wednesday he expects the council's program for promotion of the arts, humanities and social sciences will start in October.

He also told a press conference that the council will meet next June in Ottawa with representatives of Canadian universities for preliminary talks on council aid to university construction over the next 10 years.

Mr. Claxton, former Liberal defence minister, spoke to reporters at the conclusion of the council's first two-day meeting.

The council has been armed with $100,000,000 by an act of Parliament—$50,000,000 to aid university building over the next 10 years and $50,000,000 to be invested.

Mr. Claxton, now an insurance company vice-president, said the council will meet university heads during the National Conference of Canadian Universities in Ottawa June 7-8, to decide the way in which it will make construction grants.

Following this meeting the council would announce it was prepared to accept applications for grants. Once the program of aid had been announced applications should be addressed to the director of the council in Ottawa and not to individual council members.

Mr. Claxton said the council has received less than six applications for grants. Most people realized that the council was not yet in a position to grant assistance.

The experience of most foundations, he said, had been that best results were obtained through direct assistance to artists. He anticipated this would be an important part of the council's work and said "quite a lot" of awards would be made as a result of competitions.

U.K. Ready To Back Aqaba Use

LONDON (UP)—Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said Wednesday the government would back British shipowners who desired to use the Gulf of Aqaba route to Israel in defiance of Arab opposition.

Aneurin Bevan had asked whether the government would encourage ships to use the disputed Gulf of Aqab in view of its position against Suez Canal transit.

"It depends on commercial considerations, and if British shipowners and charterers are prepared to use it (the gulf) it is up to them," Lloyd said.

"If they decide to go ahead the government will support their use of it."

Traffic Courts Not Tough Enough

YET another expert in the field of traffic safety has added his voice to the many sorrowful admissions that "safety weeks" and the like are largely a waste of time and effort. Mr. Paul Blaisdell, a noted safety consultant in the United States, addressing the Canadian Highway Traffic Safety Conference in Quebec last week, said he was convinced that no amount of persuasion, moral or otherwise, can get people to drive safely. Sad as this commentary may be on the mentality and behavior of drivers in general, it is amply corroborated by statistics as well as observation.

Safety campaigns are not wholly futile. For thoughtful, responsible drivers, especially the newly licensed, they serve as a first intimation or as a reminder of fundamentals of sensible driving which might not otherwise be brought to attention until too late. But as a means of curtailing the death and accident rate they have proved a dismal failure almost everywhere. It is a rate which with few exceptions continues to rise year by year out of all proportion to the increase in numbers of vehicles in use.

Mr. Blaisdell's proffered solution, repeatedly suggested by this newspaper and many others, is greater severity towards those who cannot or will not conform to the principles of safe and considerate driving. "I am convinced," he said, "that the one best answer to the traffic accident problem is enforcement — a rough and tough crackdown on the violator, designed to remove from the road those who have no regard for the welfare of others." His advice was that removal should be permanent in the case of those who habitually drive without due regard for public protection.

Responsibility for enforcement begins with the police, and is being discharged efficiently by the RCMP in this province. But the roughness and toughness recommended by Mr. Blaisdell are a matter for the discretion of the courts, chiefly the police courts largely presided over by lay magistrates. With few exceptions the severity which many authorities in Canada as well as in the United States now see as essential is not applied, and in innumerable instances offences containing all the elements of gross disregard of public safety are punished by nominal fines and maybe an all-too-brief suspension of driving privileges.

The magistrates of B.C. are in conference at Harrison Hot Springs this week, and this is an aspect of their public duty which should and no doubt will receive earnest thought.

"You'll find I'm not just thinking of Egypt"

Easy Prey

WHEN it comes to national defence the St. Laurent administration puts most of its eggs in one basket. The West Coast fares poorly in comparison with the East, where the concentration of naval and aerial power is marked. Very properly Major-General G. R. Pearkes drew attention to the weakness here in his acceptance speech in the Esquimalt-Saanich riding. Modern naval measures to offset the threat of missile-launching submarines are being developed around carrier groups working with destroyer escorts. Not in Canada's Pacific Coast areas, however.

The Esquimalt station has, or will have when enough of the ships have been built, a quota of destroyer escorts, although not as many as are being allotted to the Halifax area. There is no aircraft carrier here, although a new one has recently joined the Atlantic Coast fleet. This means defence in blinkers, with the DEs robbed of far-ranging aerial eyes and their effective potential weakened. It is not a comforting thought.

Liberal policy is seemingly to depend on U.S. naval assistance in event of sudden emergency on the Pacific Coast. A glance at the map makes it evident that the U.S. Navy might have enough to do to protect its own Pacific coastline without bothering about Canadian shores. So long in fact as it keeps enemy submarines away from vital American areas it might not care if the submarine missiles landed in Canadian territory. Defence in such instance is like charity; it begins at home.

For effective defence it would seem commonsense that the West Coast is as important as the East Coast. Actually because of climatic conditions this area is better suited to aerial training than the East, and for that reason alone the omission of carrier strength from the Esquimalt fleet is strange. A carrier costs a lot of money, but the cost to Canada could easily be a thousand times greater for want of one.

In essence the situation is that defensively the West Coast is a poor relation of the East Coast. This has been the case for so long as to indicate it is fixed Liberal policy to favor the Atlantic seaboard. While the St. Laurent regime remains in power, therefore, the West Coast will be comparatively easy prey for an aggressor. That much seems obvious.

A change could be expected were the Liberals turned out of office and the Conservatives elected in their stead. Under the probable guidance of General Pearkes at the defence ministry West Coast Canadians would be able to sleep more easily at nights.

Higher Taxes—Less Cohesion

PRELIMINARY estimates of municipal budgets in the Greater Victoria area this year point toward higher taxes in the facing of rising costs. That situation could have been anticipated, because there are much larger numbers of residents in the four municipalities concerned. Still, the composite bill when it comes to be paid will not be a little one; nor from present economic trends will taxpayers in general find it any easeir to find the money to settle their individual accounts. Something of the same evidence can be found across Canada as increasing settlement everywhere boosts the volume and scope of essential municipal services.

The time is certainly approaching when there will need to be a reapportionment of revenues and responsibilities between Canadian municipalities and their senior governments, federal and provincial, if the municipalities are to remain solvent.

In the present position, while faced with fresh and mounting costs everywhere, the municipalities may have to find their own way out of their difficulties. They will do that the better where they can streamline their efforts, eliminate overlapping and drive a better bargain on behalf of the municipal tax dollar. What disturbs in connection with the Greater Victoria region is that in spite of these evident pressures there has been small if any attempt at cohesion. "Four of everything" is an expensive way of doing civic business, uneconomic and against the spirit of the times.

Interpreting the News

The Grand Mufti Reappears

By BERNARD KAPLAN
North American Newspaper Alliance

PARIS — The Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, now exiled in Cairo, has become a Soviet adviser on the Middle East and played a role in the recent Jordanian crisis aimed at overthrowing King Hussein.

According to American sources here, the Grand Mufti's activities, especially his increasingly close liason with the Soviet embassy, was called into question by the U.S. ambassador to Egypt, Raymond Hare, in recent talks with President Nasser. The Egyptian president, it is understood, disclaimed any responsibility for the renegade religious leader and described him as a private citizen to whom Egypt had given haven.

But, with or without Nasser's connivance, the rabidly anti-Jewish Mufti, who threw in his lot with Hitler during the last war and tried to light a pro-Nazi Arab revolt, has suddenly again become an important troublemaker in the Middle East. The Russians, late to recognize his value, have now seized on him as the perfect instrument to influence those orthodox Arabs who are unreceptive to straight Communist propaganda.

As a "holy man" the Grand Mufti still boasts standing with traditional-minded Arabs, particularly in what were formerly the Palestinian portions of Jordan. As probably the foremost living symbol of implacable opposition to Israel—he was directing Arab terrorism against Jewish settlers in Palestine when Colonel Nasser was a school boy—his prestige has taken a new luster since the Sinai fighting.

Pro-Communist newspapers in Syria recently have devoted considerable attention to him, praising him as a kind of wise, elder statesman of the anti-Israel movement and obviously seeking to make him a hero to the younger Arab generation to whom he has been not much more than a name. This publicity seems to have begun about the time the Grand Mufti established his Soviet connection and almost certainly was ordered by Moscow.

A number of his agents are known to have been in the former Palestinian portions of Jordan for several months, working very closely with the pro-Communist Jordanian National Socialist Party and other extremists.

The Mufti's men are undoubtedly paid out of Soviet funds and he himself, after several hard-up years, is reported to be living very well in a Cairo villa, with a large retinue of secretaries and servants. He always has liked to live well.

But relations between him and the once-powerful Moslem Brotherhood appear to have cooled as the Brotherhood, fanatically Pan-Arab though it is, has taken a steadily more suspicious view of Communist influence in the part of the world they would like to run. In fact, most observers believe the Mufti was put on the payroll by Moscow to counteract the Brotherhood's anti-Communist influence among more conservative-thinking Arabs.

Thinking Aloud Gerald Waring

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

AN Oak Bay reader soliloquizes as follows in one of the welcome missives he pens to me:

"If advertising can be used to strike at husbands through their wives, by making wives dissatisfied with the drudgery of home while husbands are off to the office to work late, and the wives are goaded to goad the husbands to work harder and longer in order to buy more and more appliances for the house and longer cars for the garage—then, in that sense, advertising and its helpmate the instalment plan are the two most fearsome weapons given to woman to frighten man since the invention of the rolling pin."

You wouldn't think from these remarks that my friend was a bachelor, would you? He is, too.

From Salt Spring comes an antidote in verse, so my reader says, to anonymous abusive letters. I haven't room to quote his thoughts in full but you might deduce the gist from the last stanza, which reads:

You cry to Love; your slate he must not see:
Love turns and smiles; "I know not what you mean
For I see nothing there that should not be";
And, wondering, you find the slate is clean.

A lady tells me—being elderly she has reached the age of frankness and has no inhibitions — that she was cheated out of her rights to be a boy. I don't swallow this for she's a fine swashbuckler who couldn't have done better as a man, a bonnie fighter if ever there was one—probably because she was born in the army. She has no other regrets except that, as she remarks, "age is the devil"; this when she couldn't find a misplaced note. She thought my piece about the Armoury flag was okay, although she adds that the flagstaff is yelling out loud for a 100 per cent Canadian flag.

This, I might mention, is one of her enthusiasms, and she has lots.

Not a few of my readers are fond of poesy. There is, for example, the verse a Collinson lady composed a week or so ago. It has to do with "Knocks"—that is the title—and how to regard them, to wit:

I never mind the pains and knocks I get,
As long as I can live for ever and ever.
I see no sense in living neath the sod,
I like to stay on earth and serve my God.
I do not care for critics who do hate me,
Or those sad souls who wilfully forsake me.
I care not for the pomp and unearned glory
That may get in this present world of ours
Because, in the future world I do hope to see,
That world will be as it was meant to be;
Free from sin and pomp and vanity.

I have space for little else, but my regards to all those other correspondents whose letters, unanswered, stare me bleakly in the face. Lack of acknowledgement does not mean lack of appreciation.

Reports from Ottawa

IF you accept the word of Prime Minister St. Laurent on it, the "public interest" required that J. Eugene Lefrancois be appointed to the Senate last week.

To forestall your who's he?" I hasten to identify the Hon. Mr. Lefrancois as a member of the House of Commons in the last two parliaments. Liberal, of course. Quebec, of course.

It is obvious the public interest must have been fairly pressing. There were 17 vacancies in the Senate, but Mr. Lefrancois was the only new senator appointed. This 60-year-old backbencher from Montreal was plucked out of the hurly-burly of the election campaign and elevated to the Senate almost before you could say "Lionel Chevrier."

It is not too clear just how this appointment dovetails with Mr. St. Laurent's assertion of two years ago that the government "wants the Senate to remain as a useful part of our constitutional setup." But it is even more puzzling to try to fit it into St. Laurent's statement to the Commons on April 11, when he said that whether any new senators were created before the election would depend on "whether I should find it in the public interest."

You might logically expect that a look at Mr. Lefrancois' record in office would reveal why it was in the public interest for him to be given a senatorship worth $10,000 a year for the rest of his life. But all the record shows is that if Mr. Lefrancois had any ideas on the many important matters before parliament in the last eight years, he rarely shared them with his parliamentary colleagues.

At a cost of 10 minutes of my time, I have prepared this complete and unabridge list of his utterances in the Commons:

1950—First session, nothing.
1950—Second session, nothing.
1951—First session, nothing.
1951—Second session, nothing.
1952—Nothing.
1953—One speech.
1954—One question of the ministry.
1955—Nothing.
1956—First session: JACKPOT! One speech, one question, and sponsored a private bill to incorporate a finance company.
1956 — Second session, nothing (probably reaction).
1957—Nothing.

Could it be that the public interest being served is simply the removal of Mr. Lefrancois from the Commons? Mr. St. Laurent is not clear on this point.

Mackenzie King had a neat way of convincing himself that almost anything he wanted to do was in the public interest. What was good for King was good for the Liberal party was good for the country.

If we examine Mr. Lefrancois' appointment to the Senate from that perspective the reason for this game of musical chairs becomes fairly obvious. St. Laurent has brought Lionel Chevrier back into the cabinet, but wants him to represent Quebec for reasons not unconnected with long range Liberal prospects in that province. So the problem confronting Liberal leader St. Laurent is to find Chevrier—a native Ontarian—a Commons seat in Quebec. Lefrancois has such a seat, and will trade it for a seat in the Senate.

Whether you consider this in the "public interest" depends on whether you think it is in the public interest for the Liberal party to tighten its political hold on Quebec at some cost, however slight, to the taxpayers as a whole.

The Packsack

Guilt Complex

By GREGORY CLARK

IT must be 30 years ago that, as a young man, I saw rock 'n' roll being enthusiastically practised and performed—not by performers, but by the customers at the Cotton Club in New York. They were colored. The Cotton Club was a Negro club, catering to the Harlem community, and white customers came as spectators, until in due time the novelty of it and the music of Cab Calloway churned it up into the fashion.

It was not called rock 'n' roll in those days. It was just the exuberant dancing and uninhibited physical whoop-de-do of the African, which has been familiar in America since the earliest days. The buck and wing dancing of the Mississippi and the showboats was purely African. All the white man did was throw pennies and applaud.

Jazz, originating in New Orleans, was merely the music natural to this exuberant and uninhibited spirit of the African. One by one, over the years, the dances that have come north, such as the cake walk, which was a feature of the minstrel shows that started the colored culture on its travels, up through the Charleston to the conga, mambo and other recent forms, are all Negro in origin and modification.

During the minstrel show days, the performers were white men made up as Negroes. But the trend towards the acceptance of Afro-American culture insofar as music and the dance are concerned has reached the stage today at which our most popular singing quartets strive to be Negro in their tempo, their enunciation of words and the warbling sound which is a specialty of the African voice. And much of the so-called modern dance to be seen on TV and elsewhere is certainly what you could see in Negro clubs 30 years ago, and probably on the Mississippi levees a hundred years ago.

According to the psychologists, a guilt complex is a powerful force in us as individuals. It usually works unknown to us. In America there may be a national guilt complex referring not only to the era of slavery but to the present situation of the American Negro. And all unconsciously America may be accepting the Negro idiom in song and dance as a tribute to that guilt.

Certainly the kids who are engulfed in rock 'n' roll would hardly confess to any such idea. But it must be gratifying to a Negro to see so many white performers trying so hard to catch the Negro idiom. Presley's sideburns may be a slight gesture towards the blackface of the minstrel shows. His wriggles you could have seen in the Congo any time in the past thousand years.

On the Record

Dulles the Dreamer

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE best comment I have read on Secretary Dulles' speech before the Associated Press was that of the London Telegraph: "Mr. Dulles wishes to be at once a pillar of society and [illegible] tion."

It is always easier to assert general moral principles than to deal with current realities. "Peace, justice, liberty" are words of excellent semantic content. They are "good" words; whereas "war, aggressive violence, despotism" are bad—so bad that even aggressors and despots plead self-defence and claim mandates from the people.

But peace, justice and liberty are not synonyms. Secretary Dulles' world, in which (by what process he does not name) all captive nations will be free, in which there will be justice under the "rule of law," and both be achieved by "peaceful means," is visionary.

The American Revolution, to which Dulles referred (as the pattern of all desirable or "true" revolutions) was not achieved by peace but war—and a very cruel war during which, and posthumously, many injustices were committed against the liberties of individual persons.

The recent rising in Hungary was not an act of passive resistance but of violent fury, in which "justice" on both sides was summary and bloody. Revolt and peace are contradictions.

"Law" always reflects an existent state of consciousness and conscience. There can be no world law without common concepts of law. The strict Koranic law that governs the people of the Arabian desert is entirely different from the common law of the northern European peoples and of America, or the Roman law of the Latin countries. It is the ancient law of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth that makes no allowances for motive or provocation. Russian law is not Western law and never was.

Laws governing the behavior of nations and the international rights of individuals are invariably suspended during war. "Alien" property is held to cover the lawfully acquired property of individuals, and is confiscated by an enemy state. International peace is, indeed, the bulwark of any kind of international law. But wars are fought for liberty as well as conquest. There is just no way of packaging together peace, liberty and justice, short of the millenium.

The American slogan of "self-determination for all nations" — set forth during the First World War and reinvoked by Secretary Dulles—has not contributed to world law but to anarchy. Not every people who have claimed the right to be free and self-governing have been able to demonstrate the capacity to create a viable state. The universal application of the principle has resulted in endless partitionings, creation of new grievances and hostilities, and opportunities for the powerful, playing upon these, to create new empires.

Politics is always "the art of the possible." It is not "principles"—undefined because they cannot be defined—that create a successful foreign policy. Although Aristotle defined politics as "the art of discerning what is good for mankind," he realized that such discernment is not achieved by calls to a crusade.

It still remains true that what is one man's meat is another man's poison, and that the human choice is never between white and black, good and evil, but between relatives—relatives involving both causes and consequences. Discernment requires the exercise of reason and realism and their application in specific places and on specific issues.

Peace is not achieved by crusades but by accommodations. These may fall short of satisfying the principles of the accommodators. But they may nevertheless open the way for greater justice and more liberty, neither of which is the fruit of cold wars or of hot ones.

From a crusade to liberate mankind — and peacefully at that—this writer requests to be included out. The end result will be that America, preacher and meddler throughout the globe, will finally be isolated as a common nuisance.

With the Classics

The little cottage stood alone, the pride
Of solitude surrounded every side.
Bean fields in blossom almost reached the wall;
A garden with its hawthorn hedge was all
The space between. — Green light did pass
Through one small window, where a looking-glass
Placed in the parlour, richly there revealed
A spacious landscape and a blooming field.

—JOHN CLARE

Nice Work!

Your timely editorial re the efficiency of the enumerators for the federal election June 10 might be a reminder for the returning officer in this district to check the results when they are turned in for scrutiny.

In our own case we never laid eyes on the enumerators. The names were taken off the mail boxes in the apartment and stuffed into same with no given names or the occupations of the individuals completed. Nice work if you can get it!

How to Lessen Crime

Montreal's "vice-busting" mayor, Jean Drapeau, is perfectly right as to how to reduce the prevalence of crime – by censoring and banning all so-called crime comics (imagine crime being funny!), magazines, books, radio and television and movie programs describing and picturing (in detail) the perpetration of crimes. He is also right, I fear, when he adds that crime is so important, in its drawing large audiences and making so much money for a certain type of sadistic writer and producer, that no serious attempt will be made.

If the powers that be really wanted to reduce the number of serious crimes they could do it: just as they could reduce the number of traffic deaths—if they were not afraid of treading on the toes of more or less important people (oh yes, they could).

Having proved that speed is the chief killer, they allow machines on the road that can travel at 100 miles an hour, and more. Is not that farcical?

What has happened to the curfew law?

'Interim' Flag

In his column, Thinking Aloud, Tom Taylor says the tattered state of the Red Ensign flying over the armory betrays indifference on the part of army authorities in charge. Few would dispute that such is indeed the case.

Mr. Taylor is surprised at this indifference because, "Under the same banner, during the last war, men fought." The writer goes on to say: "These men prized its identity." As an ex-serviceman I would add: for the want of a better identity.

It is safe to assume the apathetic attitude is not likely to improve for as long as the interim flag, the Red Ensign, is our flag. The very fact that it is an interim measure is to dampen any enthusiasm that might be shown for it.

If we neglect those who care not for any flag and consider those Canadians who are merely indifferent towards the colonial banner we now fly, we include a large percentage of our people.

'Colonial' Custom

I must sympathize with Mr. C. B. Cockburn who writes under the above head, and who seems to deplore our long-established and cherished customs.

Parochial Unawareness

As a native Canadian I am amazed to read the prejudiced letter (April 30) of one Sandy-Edwards of Nanaimo, "of English descent," failing to appreciate our inheritance of many wholesome and inspiring British influences; also a parochial unawareness of the war valor of the British and the origin of the British Commonwealth.

Is it not Mr. Edwards who should be "taken by the seat of the pants" (his words) and vigirously deposited in some seat of learning?

R. BARCLAY SHAW.

East and West

The prime minister's son referred to all Social Crediters as crackpots. Suffice it to say we don't appreciate his views of us and I am sure that remark will lose the Liberals a few more votes in B.C.

Doesn't he realize that any smart remarks about our premier and our government involve all of the voters who elected the same premier and government? But that is the attitude the easterner has toward the west: "Look here, you poor fools, you are not doing this right. That isn't the way we want you to do it. Now pay attention and toe the line."

I believe the basic trouble with the eastern Canadians' thinking is that they have been doing the same thing, for the same people so long, that if they were to change — and the thought scares them frantic — they would be lost, like a child separated from its mother's hand on a crowded street, whereas we in the west have been born and raised in a country that has always been changing, and therefore changes do not frighten us.

Publicity-First Charge Levelled at Red Cross

ABBOTSFORD (CP)—The Canadian Red Cross has been charged by some of its own volunteer workers with failing to assume a responsible role in caring for Hungarian immigrants at the immigration department's camp here.

Said one volunteer, an Abbotsford banker working at the camp:

"The Red Cross will have a lot of trouble making its quota here next year. The feeling is that they collect all the money, and then when there's real need, they won't spend it unless they get their money's worth in publicity."

When the camp opened in December, immigration authorities said it would function no longer than March and likely would not be called on to house more than 600 people at a time.

On Friday, it had 1,400 residents and by Saturday afternoon there were 1,550. And planes and trains are on the way with more.

JOBS LACKING

Camp officials say Hungarians are arriving at the rate of about 450 a week but are going out to jobs at about 125 a week. The depressed lumber industry is blamed for the lack of the usual pickup of job opportunities in the spring.

Volunteers of the Matsqui-Sumas-Abbotsford Red Cross, under president Tom Anderson, run a canteen and a clothing depot.

"This is an immense project," said Mr. Anderson. "It's too big for a small local Red Cross to handle, but headquarters just tells us that it is not a disaster and not an emergency.

"They wouldn't even lend us money to set up a canteen. We had to depend upon the Christian charity of a wholesaler," he said.

"We need trousers for the men, desperately, for instance . . . We feel the Red Cross could well provide some work trousers, but they won't do it," said

B.C. Forest Products Subdivision

Homes to Spring Up Near Mill

DUNCAN — B.C. Forest Products will launch a $600,000 subdivision development in Crofton almost immediately with the start of work on the first unit of 25 homes on what is known locally as the Brooks subdivision. The company is now constructing a $38,000,000 pulp mill at Crofton.

The company will build a second unit of 25 homes and it is likely that following completion of the second unit the balance of 150 lots will be offered for public sale.

Development of the subdivision will include provision of sewer and water, with fire hydrants every 1,000 feet of main, and street lighting under supervision of the B.C. Power Commission.

Company officials said the homes will be sufficiently varied in design and price to give no semblence to a company town if the homes were purchased by mill workers.

Schedule Announced

St. Laurent In Nanaimo On Saturday

NANAIMO—Prime Minister St. Laurent will arrive in Nanaimo by the yacht Fifer at 10.30 a.m. Saturday, Nanaimo Liberal headquarters announced yesterday.

He will be accompanied by his sister, Mrs. N. O'Donnell, and Defence Minister Ralph Campney.

Arrangements have been made for the prime minister to speak at a luncheon in the Plaza Hotel ball room at 1.15 p.m. His address will be broadcast if necessary to an outside audience on Dallas Square.

The prime minister will leave for Victoria at 2.15 p.m., making a 10-minute stop in Ladysmith at 3 p.m. and at Duncan at 3.35 p.m. Scheduled stopping place in Duncan is the Chamber of Commerce building on the main highway.

Heading the welcoming committee at the Departure Bay wharf, where the prime minister is due to arrive, will be Nanaimo electoral district candidate Frank W. Wilfert, Douglas Greer, president of the Nanaimo Federal Liberal Association, will preside over the luncheon.

DIANE ALLEN

NANAIMO—Talented soprano Diane Allen will be the soloist at the "pops"—concert of Nanaimo Symphony Orchestra in Nanaimo Senior High School at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Tenders Due Soon For Tofino Road

PORT ALBERNI—Assurance that tenders will be called by June 1 for the government's section of the Alberni-Tofino road was received by John Squire, MLA, when he visited Victoria Tuesday.

Mr. Squire reported that Deputy Minister of Highways Evan Jones had given him the assurance during an interview.

Under terms of timber management licence agreements, MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd. is constructing the eastern section of the road and B.C. Forest Products Ltd. the western section, with the government undertaking to link the two sections to provide an access road to the Ucluelet-Tofino area.

Indians Win Cuts In Theft Sentences

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sentences of three Indians who had been convicted of breaking and entering in North Cowichan municipality were reduced by Court of Appeal Wednesday. They all had been sentenced by Magistrate W. H. Bryant at Duncan to penitentiary terms.

Nelson Canute, 24, said to be the leader, had a sentence of five years reduced to three years and six months.

William Elliott, 24, had his sentence of four years reduced to two years less a day.

Ronald Alphonse, 19, who had been sentenced to four years, was given a term of one year.

The stolen articles, including automatic pistols, a shotgun and a rifle, were valued at about $3,000.

Boat Spins Too Fast To Catch

QUATHIASKI COVE — Mrs. Butch Murgard was startled at 2.30 yesterday morning when she heard an outboard boat running wild and going around in a tight circle.

Her husband set out in a gillnetter to investigate, but could not get near enough to the boat to stop it. Neither could RCMP in a speedboat.

After an hour and a half it ran onto nearby rocks.

RCMP searched the shores in case someone had fallen out. No one has been reported missing and the boat had apparently been stolen.

Infection Real Killer

Suffocation of Babies Almost Medical Oddity

Pathologist, Coroner Take Different Views

By ERITH M. SMITH

Cases of actual suffocation of infants are so rare as to be almost medical oddities.

So said Dr. Ross McNeely, pathologist at Royal Jubilee Hospital, when questioned by the Colonist yesterday.

Dr. McNeeley was quoting an article which appeared two or three years ago in the Australian Medical Journal, based on hundreds of cases in that country.

Almost invariably, said Dr. McNeeley, death believed due to suffocation proved to have been caused by an infection.

"In infants," he said, "these infections can come on very rapidly. Many cases of apparent suffocation of infants are discovered in the morning. There is ample time, from putting the child down for the night to picking it up next morning, for such an infection to take hold and act fatally.

LESS THAN YEAR

"Almost always the children involved are less than one year old.

"To begin with, infants have a resistance to infection brought with them from their mothers at birth. There is a period, however, when this inherited resistance lessens, and the infants have not built up their own ability to throw off infection.

"It is during this period that trouble may develop—a cold caught from another child, or an infection of the middle ear, for example.

"In the very young, these infections can act very rapidly."

The Australian findings, said Dr. McNeely, were backed up by his own experience as a pathologist, and by the findings of a Tacoma specialist.

The latter wrote that in more than 200 autopsies performed by him following the death of young children, the true cause was found to have been an illness.

Dr. E. C. Hart, Victoria coroner, yesterday gave suffocation as the cause of the death of 2½-year-old Dale Smith, of 2616 Fernwood, who was rushed by city police to St. Joseph's Hospital early Tuesday.

Dr. Hart said he found no obstruction of any kind to the respiratory organs.

Pronouncing death accidental, Dr. Hart reiterated a warning he has issued often to parents concerning the danger of putting infants to sleep face down.

"This should not be done," he told the Colonist, "unless there is a trained nurse in constant attendance. The risk is too great."

With this Dr. McNeely did not agree entirely. He felt a healthy child should be able to turn its face to breathe freely in any position, unless there were some other factor to restrict breathing.

It was health, not position, that was the deciding factor, in Dr. Neely's opinion.

Trans-Mountain at 126 was ahead a point and Inter-Provincial Pipe Lines advanced ¼ to 57.

Oil Stocks Lead

NEW YORK (UP)—Oil shares led stocks higher in moderate trading.

Industrials reached a new top since Jan. 4 and utilities set a new 26-year high.

High earnings have been reported for the oil companies in the first quarter and many of the oil executives have issued favorable statements on the outlook for the remainder of 1957.

Gains in the oils ran to more than 4 points at the high in Amerada. Gulf rose more than 2 points. Others rose to 2 points with several at new highs for the year. Superior of California reached a new high at 17.30 up 45 points at its best. Texas Gulf Producing ran up after selling off more than 3 points.

A rise to a record high in first quarter earnings sustained U.S. Steel. Bethlehem firmed. Lukens rose more than 2 and then met profit-taking.

Auto issues ruled steady to firm. Metals were strong with gains running to more than 2 points in Aluminum Co. and Magma Copper.

Chemicals generally were higher. Aircrafts were mixed. Rails had a better tone.

Action in B.C.

Nickel Mine Reopening

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

The reopening shortly of Pacific Nickel Mine near Hope, B.C., has been announced by Col. Victor Spencer, president.

[illegible] Newmont Mining, and a contract has been arranged for the sale of nickel concentrates, at considerably more than $1 a pound.

A mill will be provided by Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting and Power, which this week closed down its mining operations at Copper Mountain, near Princeton.

Granby will operate the Pacific Nickel Mill and it is understood concentrates will be shipped to Sherritt Gordon's leaching plant at Fort Saskatchewan.

KAYBOB RANKS HIGH

The new Phillips Petroleums Kaybob No. 1 well, previously reported, is now officially announced by the U.S. company as giving on test a daily rate of 2,350 barrels a day of 43-degree gravity oil.

The well is within nine miles of the Sturgeon Lake pipeline and is 35 miles westerly of the recent Home Oil discovery in the Virginia Hills.

It is regarded as one of a series of highly important discoveries in an area of Alberta which is largely unexplored.

COAL IN WRONG PLACE

Widespread sympathy will be felt for the 250 miners at Blairmore, Alta., who have lost their jobs through the closing of the Greenhill coal mine of Canadian Collieries after over 50 years of working.

Yet one wonders if Premier Manning of Alberta is really serious when he suggested there should be a national coal policy to prevent closures like this while millions of tons of U.S. coal are being imported into Canada.

The facts are that Canada's coal deposits unfortunately are largely in the wrong places.

The people of Ontario who import coal from nearby U.S. mines could not be expected to pay the extra two or three dollars a ton it would take to ship Canadian coal from the Crow's Nest Pass.

The only way Premier Manning's scheme would work would be by government subsidy. Nobody wants that.

Alberta will for the time being, at least, have to be content with its oil and gas millions.

RAILWAYS HAMSTRUNG

At the CPR meeting, Mr. Crump said the federal government was making it extremely difficult for the railways to compete with other transportation.

The railways needed relief from the "outdated" regulations which compelled them to carry grain and other commodities at fixed, depressed rates.

He said railways should be given the same flexibility as other modes of transportation in the matter of pricing.

London Stocks Strong

LONDON (Reuters) — Investment buying showed a marked increase and prices advanced on a wide front.

Government securities showed widespread gains on buying. In foreign bonds Greek and Peruvian issues were quietly firm.

Many leading industrials established useful gains, particularly shares of companies operating overseas. Turner and Newall, Imperial Chemical Unilever, and Hudson's Bay all improved.

Steel shares failed to hold earlier gains but engineering stores, electrical equipments, textiles and buildings attracted attention.

Oil shares were strong and active with the leaders showing substantial gains.

But Gen. Duke ... Expected to Run

Derby Favorite Injures Foot

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Calumet Farm's Gen. Duke, favorite for Saturday's running of the $125,000-added Kentucky Derby, turned up Wednesday with an injured left front foot, but trainer Jimmy Jones said the colt's chances of starting were 50-50 after hearing the report of the X-ray examinations.

An X-ray was taken of the foot when Gen. Duke started favoring it hours after finishing second to Federal Hill in Monday's Derby trial.

Jones said: "Now that the X-ray indicates nothing more serious than either a bruise or a slight separation, our job is to relieve the soreness within the next four days."

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Dan Gerber (MOTHER OF 5)

Here we are, right in the midst of National Baby Week. And while every week is baby week for you mothers, this is the time when all our tiny sweet and precious ones are in the spotlight everywhere. Your grocer, for example, who serves your baby all the year, puts special emphasis on baby needs this week. What better time to check his shelves and see how very many fine products he has featured for your pride and joy?

New babies advance to solid foods surprisingly soon in these modern times. Almost before you can believe it, your doctor will probably specify cereal. That's when you'll find the five Gerber Cereals:—Rice, Barley, Oatmeal, Wheat and Mixed Cereal provide the ideal way to introduce cereal variety to your darling. All are precooked and ready to serve. When mixed with formula or milk they have the nice-on-the-tongue texture babies like. All four are enriched with iron, calcium and B-vitamins.

Regulating idea. When your doctor feels baby is ready to move toward a regular, 3-meals-a-day schedule, you'll find a change of scene or a bit of play will help baby "wait out" a half hour or so, even if hunger sends out early signals. Babies are adaptable and will often settle for attention if the wait isn't too long.

Early menu entree. Doctors recommend fully ripe bananas for small fry, not only to provide energy-giving calories in easy to digest form, but because most babies take to this palatable fruit almost instantly. Gerber Strained Bananas have a uniform, just-right degree of ripeness because ripening is controlled. Special processing preserves the delicate banana flavor, appealing color and smooth texture. Ancient Sugar Ray Robinson Joins Ring Immortals

Victory and defeat is graphically expressed by camera after Sugar Ray Robinson last night became first man ever to win the world middleweight championship four times. While referee Frank Sikora supports the limp ex-champion, Gene Fullmer, Robinson jigs with joy and Harold Johnson rushes happily out to greet new champion.—(AP Wirephoto.)

Left Hook Finishes Fullmer, Earns Title for Fourth Time

By JACK CUDDY

CHICAGO (UP)—Ancient Sugar Ray Robinson joined the ring immortals last night by winning the world middleweight championship for an unprecedented fourth time with a terrific left hook to the chin that knocked out Gene Fullmer at 1.27 of the fifth round.

Robinson's upset victory was the most glamorous of his amazing 17-year career. He went into the ring an underdog at 3-1 against the rugged Utah "battering ram" who had outpointed him decisively for the 160-pound crown at New York last Jan. 2.

The knockout came with incredibly unexpected suddenness, for the 36-year-old Sugar Man appeared to be tiring in the fifth round just before he landed the left hook that ended the battle in spectacular fashion before a crowd estimated at 12,000.

Fullmer, the muscular, bull-shouldered 25-year-old mining welder, who never had been stopped in his previous 44 bouts, and had been floored but three times, was smashed sideways to the canvas, where he landed on his knees and then slithered to his stomach.

FULLMER TRIES

He tried to rise and had pushed himself partially off the canvas at the count of eight but then he slumped forward again as referee Frank Sikora waved the full 10 count over him.

Gene then rolled over helplessly onto his side and had to be assisted to his feet.

Gene, who weighed, 159¾ pounds to Robinson's 159½, was narrowly ahead on points on the score sheets of all three ring officials by a uniform count, 19 to 18. The United Press card was the same.

RICHES COMING

Robinson's victory not only made him the only fighter in any division in ring history to win the same world championship four times but it also assured him a rich title defence against welterweight champion Carmen Basilio in June or July.

Fullmer had gone into the ring a heavy favorite because of his unanimous victory over Ray at Madison Square Garden and because he scaled two pounds more than he did then. And that extra poundage was supposed to make young Gene more powerful than in the New York fight.

However, Robinson upset all expectations by first fighting a very smart battle and, second, by landing the left hook that he had been sharpening for weeks in training.

RAY'S MISTAKE

In the January fight, Robinson made the mistake of leading into Fullmer with left jabs and letting the lad from West Jordan, Utah, use his swarming charges as counter-weapons that caught Robinson off balance again and again and forced him to grab and hold.

Last night, Sugar Ray shuffled forward persistently, but instead of jabbing or throwing rights, he feinted the reluctant Fullmer into leading with his plunging attack. And then Robinson countered with left hooks to body and head and sometimes with right smashes to the head.

Nevertheless, in the first and third rounds Fullmer landed the greater number of punches during his swarming spasms at close quarters. The second session was bitterly contested and appeared about even.

FOLLOWS PLAN

In the fourth round, Robinson did just as he had promised in his pre-battle talks with close friends.

He cut loose with two terrific barrages in "shoot the works" fashion after spinning Gene with a left hook. However, rugged Fullmer came fighting back and forced Ray into a corner, where they had a terrific exchange.

As the fifth round opened, Robinson countered one of Fullmer's rushes with a left to the head and then he landed a hard right smash to the body only a few seconds before he floored Gene with a left hook to the chin.

ONE OF THE GREATS

Robinson, unquestionably one of the greatest fighters in ring history, registered his 140th victory and his 91st knockout in 148 professional fights.

That record now includes four knockouts in his four wins of the middleweight championship.

In addition, he wore the welterweight crown before and gave it up when he first became middleweight champion on a 13-round knockout over Jake La Motta in 1951.

He lost the middleweight title to Randy Turpin in July, 1951, but recaptured it from Turpin in September of that year.

RETIRED ONCE

Robinson retired from boxing with the title in December, 1952, to become a song-and-dance man but returned to the ring in January, 1955, and recaptured the crown for the second time from Bobo Olson in December, 1956, and lost it to Fullmer last Jan. 2.

A late rush for the cheaper seats boosted attendance to 14,753 and resulted in a gross gate of $158,643 and a net figure of $129,981.

Each fighter received 30 per cent of the gate and the $100,000 fee for radio and television rights, making their "take" for the fight $68,990.

Sugar Has Visitors; Tax Trio Stands By

CHICAGO (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson found three internal revenue men waiting in his dressing room Wednesday night after his win.

Possibly out of respect for the new champion, however, the trio did not speak to Robinson directly nor serve any papers. They were silent greeters, standing inside a shower stall while Robinson faced the cheering throng before him.

Earlier the federal men had tied up his purse for $23,000 for back income taxes.

Speaking Briefly

Pirates Send Long to Cubs; Awards to Fielder, Dechene

Chicago Cubs, moving to bolster what has been the weakest attack in the National League this season, yesterday obtained first baseman Dale Long and outfielder Lee Walls from the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Pirates, with an infield hole to plug, happily received Gene Baker as well as first-baseman-outfielder Dee Fondy from the Cubs.

In a new infield alignment, the Pirates will use Baker at shortstop and move Dick Groat to third base. Frank Thomas will remain at first base and Fondy will be available for pinch-hitting and relief duty at first base and in the outfield.

Long, who set a major league record last year with eight home runs in eight successive games, will be the Cubs' first-sacker and Walls will strengthen their weak picket corps.

The Cubs plan to shift shortstop Ernie Banks to third base and play rookie Ed Winceniak at shortstop.

Centre Guyle Fielder of Seattle Americans and goalie Lucien Dechene of Brandon Regals have been named the most valuable players in their respective divisions of the Western Hockey League in a poll of sportscasters and sportswriters.

GUYLE FIELDER

Dennis Riggin, Edmonton goalie, became the first goalkeeper to win a WHL rookie award when he won it in the prairie division. Dennis Olson, winger for New Westminster Royals, was named western division rookie.

All four winners will receive $100 and a trophy.

Fielder set a new professional hockey scoring record last season with 33 goals and 89 assists for 122 points in 69 games. Dechene's MVP award is his second. His first came in the 1951-52 season while with the Royals.

Dechene led goalkeepers of both leagues last season with a goals-against average of 2.65.

Youthful Pils Look Promising In Losing to Shamrocks, 17-11

By IAN GLENDAY

Vancouver Pilseners unveiled their "new look" before some 2,900 Victoria boxla fans Wednesday night, and Jack McKinnon's youthful club indicated that it will make things interesting in Inter-City Lacrosse League action this season.

Pils, built around the Canadian junior champions of last year, went down to their second straight defeat of the young season, a 17-11 thumping from the Shamrocks, but not before giving the powerful Victorians plenty of trouble with their hustle and spirit.

Boasting only three players—Bill Barbour, Bill Chisholm and Bob Parry—with one season of senior lacrosse behind them, the Pilseners out-ran the Rocks all the way, showed a willingness to mix and fought all the harder the farther they dropped behind.

It was Vancouver's lack of finish and the Rocks' greater experience that proved the difference in the wide-open and, at times, exciting battle at Memorial Arena.

Shamrocks racked up their second straight victory but coach Whitey Severson was far from pleased with his club's performance. "Our defence was bad," he said last night. "And it was easy to see that several players aren't in the best of shape," he added.

"They've got to hustle out there all the time," the aroused Severson commented. "We've still got three players coming. Nobody's made this club yet," he cautioned.

That the Rocks made it two straight last night can be partly attributed to the fine goalkeeping of substitute Don Hamilton and the fine play of the Bert Bertoia-Al Gill-Pee Wee Bradshaw line, which picked up seven goals and matched strides with the speedy Pils.

Hamilton, taking over from the ailing Geordie Johnston, who may be lost to the club for two months because of recurring ulcer trouble, showed a lot of poise and came up with several big saves as he found the Pilsener attackers in close time and again.

Hamilton blocked 26 shots, nine in the fourth quarter, while Norm Lee turned in a brilliant effort in the Vancouver nets, particularly in the opening half.

Gill again worked hard throughout, firing in four goals and 'digging' out the ball for his line-mates, while Bertoia scored twice and Bradshaw picked up a goal and two assists.

Jack Bionda, although not having one of his better games, also picked up four goals for the winners to make it eight in the two games and 11 points. Jackie Northup collected four assists for the second straight game.

Gordie Gimple, a fine rookie prospect who was one of the stars for PNE junior Indians last season, led the Mainlanders with two goals and a pair of assists. Two other rookies, Fred Usselman and Chuck Boucher, each scored twice.

Penalties helped the Rocks in the first half. Victoria scored four goals while Pils were shorthanded, picked up two more while playing a man short.

The Rocks led 4-1 after the first quarter, 8-4 a half-time and pulled away from the pressing Mainlanders by scoring four of five goals after Pils had pulled to within 8-6 early in the third quarter.

Six City Rugby Stars Meet Barbarians Here

Six players from Victoria clubs and two former Victorians will be in the lineup for the B.C. All-Stars when they play the famed Barbarians in an international rugby match at Macdonald Park next Wednesday evening.

Line-up of the B.C. side for the Victoria game was announced last night and the inclusion of so many Victoria stars was a pleasant surprise for city rugby followers, who had been given to understand that only three or four Victorians would be included.

Frank Gower, veteran James Bay Athletic Association fullback was given the honor of captaining the B.C. team for the Victoria game.

He will have teammate Harry Turner at prop forward. Three of the Oak Bay Wanderers—scrum-half Gary Webster, stand-off Ray Calton and wing-forward Paul Beck—will also be in the line-up.

Victoria College will be represented by Stu Smith, hook, and Mike Keye, eighth man.

Former Victorians who will be in the line-up are left-winger Johnny Newton and wing-forward Jim McWilliams, both of Vancouver Meralomas.

Stars from Vancouver clubs make up the balance of the All-Star side.

Barbarians, fresh from 47-3 and 52-0 victories over the Ontario All-Stars, arrived in Vancouver last night. The touring club, made up of stars from English, Irish, Scottish and Welsh teams, is making its first overseas trip in the 66-year history of the club.

Brand new idea!
blending Kraft Mayonnaise
to make your own special
dressings!

To 1 cup of Kraft Mayonnaise, add ¼ cup of your favorite tomato juice and mix thoroughly. Just one of the exciting dressings you can make with Kraft's "special-beating" Mayonnaise.

Try it with tomato juice, orange juice, cranberry juice, chicken broth, whatever your fancy suggests! There are dozens of intriguing new flavors you can create just by giving Kraft Mayonnaise your own personal touch.

These new dressings never curdle, never separate, never let you down. From the moment you make them, mixtures are smooth as silk and stay that way.

The secret is Kraft's special beating process. It takes more than egg yolks to make a mayonnaise that will mix like this. Only a special beating process—beating extra egg yolks and rich, creamy oils—can give you so smooth a "mixer".

Try Kraft's this week and see if it isn't better than any other.

No other Mayonnaise blends like Kraft's

Oak Bay Merchants Ask Monday Closing

Store closing all day Monday, rather than Wednesday afternoon, has been requested by 50 Oak Bay merchants.

Twenty others, who didn't sign a petition sent to Oak Bay council, will be asked their opinions by the council.

Council recently decided to write to all the merchants about changing the half-day closing day, but decided to wait when it heard about the petition.

The petitioners said they wanted two consecutive free days a week. Also, remaining open Wednesday afternoon would be a boon to them and to residents of the city and neighboring municipalities when stores there are closed.

Beer Boost Bid May Spread

The "war" began here last Friday when seven hotels announced they had increased the price of beer to 15 cents a glass or two glasses for 25 cents.

The operators said they tried to give up their licences Tuesday night but neither the RCMP nor G. L. Venables, liquor store vendor, would accept them.

Aged Hope For Profits From Bingo

Society president George T. Williams told an executive board meeting last night it was hoped that the Kinsmen would turn over a large part of their reported $21,000 bingo profits to the housing project for the aged.

ALTERNATIVES

One was that a Kinsmen bingo game, which has proved highly successful in the past, be held for the society; the other was that a Kinsmen-sponsored one-night door-to-door fund-raising canvass be held.

$1,000 PROMISED

It was also reported at the meeting that a citizen, who wished to [illegible]

The driver got away—but not for long.

At 1:50 a.m. yesterday a car struck a fire hydrant at the corner of Gorge Road and Washington, shearing off the hydrant and creating a gushing fountain.

The driver backed away and drove off — but his licence plate, torn off in the crash and left behind, put police on the trail of the owner's car.

What's Cooking! — By Frances Thompson

Aged Need Good Food

[illegible]

The few studies which have been made on the subject of aging were conducted with rats and were concerned with longevity as a gross entity rather than with specific nutritional aspects.

All of these studies have shown that the life span is longest when complete diets are fed throughout life and certain results indicate that an intermediate maximal body weight favors a long life. Overeating and undereating are unfavorable. As old age approaches particular attention should be paid to preventing poor eating habits from becoming fixed, to encouraging the eating of a larger variety and quantity of the foundation foods and to maintaining adequate chewing.

Why should we eat fruits? Because they furnish minerals and are a good source of vitamins—especially "C." They aid in elimination of body wastes and they supply some sugar in an easily assimilated form. They also help to maintain the normal neutrality of the blood.

Cat Survives 12,000 Volts

LAKELAND, Fla. (UP) — The city's power system is back to normal. It suffered $5,000 damage because a yellow Persian cat got caught in a 12,000-volt transformer.

The cat lost most of its hair and one leg but escaped with its life. The resulting short circuit made the lights dim throughout the city.

Pick Zucchinis Small

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

[illegible]

A lot of gardeners are thinking of the Black Zucchini in the same terms as Hubbard, Acorn and Butternut squash. All these varieties are winter squash, grown on to maturity before you pick them, and capable of being stored in a cool basement for mid-winter use.

[illegible]

Black Zucchini will grow to an enormous size if they are allowed to [illegible] they must be peeled, divided in half lengthwise, the pith and seeds scraped out with a dull spoon, and the remaining flesh cubed and boiled. Served in this way, with lots of butter, salt and pepper the flavor is good, better than any marrow, but it lacks the distinctive taste of the little immature fruits.

[illegible]

In the centre of each station I sow two seeds, putting them in edgewise, with the point down, and about an inch deep. These are covered with jam jars until the seedlings appear, when the weakest of each pair is pulled up and discarded, leaving one strong seedling to each station.

In short, he was the old stereotyped husband—a sort of grown-up moron while his wife was the sweet, competent mothering angel. Civic officials joined to get the wholehearted support of Greater Victoria residents [illegible] ber of Commerce Paint Up, Clean Up campaign this week.

Said Mayor Percy Scurrah:

"We are fortunate to live in a city with such natural beauty, and I am asking everyone to do his part in cleaning up buildings and gardens and keep streets and boulevards free from debris."

Austin Curtis, city alderman and president of the senior chamber, said:

"It is a fact that good housekeeping always leaves a good impression. The business community may well take a lesson from the Jaycees' efforts and see to it that their own housekeeping is in order. Not only will a clean city leave a much better impression on our visitors, but it will also serve to brighten the general appear[illegible] resulting in resistance to deterioration."

Roman Catholic Bishop of Victoria, James M. Hill, assured Jaycees that "I shall be pleased to urge the co-operation and the assistance of our churches in your city-wide program."

Oak Bay Reeve Fred Norris said:

"Support of the Paint Up, Clean Up campaign not only benefits the community but gives equal benefit to the individual. We of Oak Bay are proud of our community, homes and gardens, and I am sure will make even a greater effort in support of this campaign."

Said L. J. Wallace, general chairman of the B.C. Centennial Committee which will conduct a province-wide clean-up campaign with Jaycee co-operation next year:

"The B.C. Centennial Committee is extremely grateful for the work the Jaycees are doing in [illegible] centennial year. We know that visitors greeted this year by the shining faces of communities throughout the province will be more than eager to return for the 'Celebration of the Century' in 1958."

In urging all Saanich citizens to take an "active part in this worthwhile community enterprise," Reeve Arthur Ash said:

"We can all do something about improving our neighborhood by assisting with the commendable effort shown by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in their drive to make Greater Victoria a cleaner and well-kept place to live."

Fire chiefs in the district also commended the drive to make homes safer by removal of papers and trash that accumulate in cellars and attics and are often the source of fire.

Eight Recommendations

Retarded Children Subject of Brief

A brief of eight major recommendations for a comprehensive program on the care of retarded children has been presented to the provincial government.

The brief was made up and given by executives of the Association for Retarded Children of B.C.

The recommendations called for the integration of Woodlands School educational facilities and program with the education system of the province and for extended services and facilities for Woodlands.

They also asked consideration for financial assistance with transportation costs, permission for school boards to apply for capital expenditures to provide accommodation for retarded children and dormitory and boarding allowances for children attending training centres away from home.

Also suggested were small residential homes to accommodate retarded young persons or adults who may be usefully employed.

They suggested application be made to the federal government for funds for research in mental retardation fields and asked for higher wages for persons working in the field of mental retardation.

The brief was presented to Education Minister Leslie Peterson and Provincial Secretary Wesley Black by provincial executive members Dr. Donald Patterson, Dr. C. G. McNeil, Dr. H. G. Dunn, R. A. Mowat, H. H. Goossen, Mrs. W. G. Purdy and Mrs. Winnifred Goepel, all of Vancouver.

Ministers' Education 'A Waste'

One of the great wastes in the churches today is the type of education given a minister, claims Dr. Edwin H. Wilson, executive director of the American Humanist Association.

Dr. Wilson, a former philosophy lecturer at the University of Utah, was here on a speaking tour of western humanist groups from headquarters at Yellow Springs, Ohio.

Referring to the church, he said, "it would be a far more vital organization, if its ministers paid less attention to the hereafter."

He felt that churches should be more concerned with the "ethics" of human relationships. Indoctrination in theological beliefs does not necessarily make a person moral, he declared.

"Ministers should be trained as civic leaders and family counsellors," he said.

Don't Plead Guilty For Convenience

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Automobile Association says motorists shouldn't be too quick to plead guilty on traffic charges just for the sake of convenience.

The association's monthly meeting here was told there is a growing tendency in B.C. for motorists to plead guilty and pay the fine.

An association spokesman said: "We are not telling everybody to plead not guilty, but if a conviction will mean a licence endorsement and perhaps an increased insurance premium, then a motorist who feels he is not guilty should at least attempt to prove it."

Going to Sea

Fishermen Reach Agreement

A compromise agreement on the rental of echo sounders cleared the way for the 200-vessel halibut fleet to leave Vancouver and Prince Rupert for the fishing grounds tomorrow.

The temporary agreement, to come up again for negotiation at the end of the season, was reached in Vancouver by the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (Ind.) and the Fishing Vessel Owners' Association.

The fishermen, some 1,500 of whom are affected, agreed to pay rent on the echo sounders for either one or two trips, depending on the fishing area.

Halibut season opens today. The American fleet, already on the grounds, will have an advantage over the Canadian fishermen because the first boats in get higher prices for their fish.

Speaking Quartet Triumphs

Vancouver Island residents won the top honors in the district convention of the Dale Carnegie Club International held in Portland, Ore., over the weekend.

Eileen Jubb, 2487 Thompson Avenue, won first place in the impromptu class and John L. Nieuwdorp, 1330 Bond, took second place. William Taylor, Departure Bay, took first place in the prepared speech section with Mrs. Rose Richardson, Duncan, second.

Miss Jubb and Mr. Taylor will take part in the International finals to be held during the international convention of the club in Houston, Tex., in June.
